

Elemental Phono USB at the Museum of Contemporary Art Tokyo

A Pro-Ject turntable made it to the Museum of Contemporary Art Tokyo: There is a great installation of art with the Elemental Phono USB, currently being exhibited till 16th february 2020.

A work by a group of artists called Dumb Type made this sound installation.

<https://www.mot-art-museum.jp/en/exhibitions/dumb-type-actions-reflections/>

Dumb Type, Playback 2018

Installation view of "Dumb Type / Actions + Reflections", 2019, Museum of Contemporary Art Tokyo

Photocredit: Nobutada Omote

Dumb Type is a Japanese group of artists specializing in fields as varied as visual art, theater, dance, music, video, computer programming and design. Since its formation in 1984, Dumb Type has worked toward a broadening of the possibilities for artistic expression. Derived from the diversity of its members and from the different media the group uses, Dumb Type's aesthetic has acted as a refined sensor in the realization of the group's projects. Their works has been presented in numerous festivals and exhibitions, including the Venice Biennale (2003), Seoul International Modern Dance Festival (2005), Melbourne International Arts Festival (2006), The Athens Concert Hall (2009), solo exhibition at Centre Pompidou-Metz, France (2018) and Museum of Contemporary Art Tokyo (2019), among others.

Dumb Type installation, Playback, at Museum of Contemporary Art Tokyo